Spanish-Language Audio Tour for Children Available October 26 at Desert Caballeros Western Museum

-- New tour expands educational offerings for local community and international visitors --

Wickenburg, AZ – Starting October 26, 2018, the Desert Caballeros Western Museum will offer a Spanish-language guidePORT™ audio tour for children, made possible by a recent grant from Arizona Humanities. The new audio tour introduces young visitors to Western art and the history of Wickenburg and Arizona through engaging descriptions and first-person narration. It complements the Museum's existing audio tour offerings, which include adult tours in Spanish and English, as well as an English-language children's tour. The existing audio tours were first made available in 2014 with the installation of a guidePORT™ audio system at the Museum, a project also made possible by Arizona Humanities. The guidePORT™ system is hands-free and activates based on the user's location within the Museum, making it effortless for speakers of any age to operate.

Translated and narrated by Wickenburg educator Gloria Rogers, the Spanish-language tour will serve the Hispanic community of Wickenburg and its surrounding areas, as well as international visitors the Museum welcomes from countries such as Mexico, Spain, and Italy. The Museum plans to add additional languages such as Chinese, German, and French in the future. Audio tours are available for school groups and individual visitors alike.

GuidePORT™ audio tours are complimentary with paid Museum admission. Admission is always free for children 17 and under.

For more information about guidePORT™ audio tours and the Museum, contact Amanda Schlueter at the Desert Caballeros Western Museum, 928-684-2272 or marketing@westernmuseum.org.
